Just talked to him. Talked a little about the north portal. He didn't mention Mercer. Talked about how Ballard/Interbay freight would get to the south end. Told him most likely on surface Alaskan Way. On costs, told him we were reviewing the comments from Cascadia. Happy New Year!

Thanks --

I'll still need to chat with a project engineer or manager. Is that still on?

If it's after 1 p.m., I should go eat now.

Sure do - all the presentations from that briefing can be found here, under the heading "Stakeholder Advisory Committee briefing - Dec. 16, 2008":

<http://www.wsdot.wa.gov/Projects/Viaduct/library-meetingmaterials.htm>

Pages 6-10 of the "bored tunnel presentation" will answer some of your questions re: alignment and diameter.

I've got a black/white printout, but a color version would be easier to read, regarding the tunnel alignment compared to other tunnels the already exist.
